

Free Energy Advice Webinar – New Dates Available

Citizens Advice Derbyshire Districts have expanded their series of free Energy Advice Webinars, new webinar dates are now available right up until the end of March. The training sessions are still free; you can find the new dates in the flyer, along with the signing up details.

The training is available to front line workers and volunteers in the East Midlands who support members of the public who may be struggling with their energy costs or are at risk of doing so.

If you'd like to talk about a separate presentation for an individual group, please get in touch with Citizens Advice Derbyshire Districts. An individual session will still be free, please email me directly with any queries on Beth.Mercer@ddcab.org.uk, or use this link to submit a form: [\[ENQUIRE HERE\]](#)

The webinar sessions will cover several energy related topics including fuel poverty, tariff switching, energy efficiency options, and support schemes available – including recent changes. The session could serve either as an introduction to newer frontline workers, or a refresher/update for staff who have received this kind of training before, encompassing recent policy changes.
